DAVIS THEATRE.

New Show Today—Keith Vaudeville and Triangle Photographs.

There will be a complete change of programme at this theatre today and everything will be entirely different from the first part of the week. In the vaudeville the feature attraction is Lillian's Ball Room Dancing Dogs, ten in number, who do the most wonderful exhibition now being presented in vaudeville. This is an act that the kiddies will like to bring them to see the performing dogs during the last half of this week. Another good act is Foley and O'Neil, two clever fellows who do a witty singing, talking and dancing turn. The feature photograph on this bill is called, Let Katie Do It, a five part Triangle comedy drama featuring Jane Gray and Tully Marshall. This is a pretty story of a young girl, who mothered seven children, and her reward, is told in this picture. Katie Standish is a family friend on a New England farm. Her father and mother die. She then lives with her married sister. In rapid succession seven children are born to the sister. The parents are killed by a train. Katie then goes to school and supporting her little flock of which she is the foster mother. Dan Standish, who is the uncle of Katie, sends for her and the children. She goes to his mine in Mexico. With Dan is Oliver Putnam, a former sweetheart of Katie. The girl gets angry with him, because he does not like the children. While the older people are away on an errand of mercy Mexican attack the little home at the mine. The children escape and aid is summoned. Before the cowboys can arrive, however, the children shoot off guns and discharge bullets that surround the house, keeping the attackers at bay. Then help arrives. Oliver is pleased at the happy work of the children. He and Katie are reunited and a happy home for the flock in the states. The Keystone comedy to complete the show is called Rubies of Trouble, and Harry McCoy is the principal maver in this two reel laugh producer. Bargain matinee every day at 2.15, all seats 10 cents, children 5 cents.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Henry B. Walthall and Blanche Sweet in "The Evening Conscience" to be shown again today.

The five reel photograph, "The Evening Conscience" featuring Henry Walthall and Blanche Sweet will be shown again today. It is a wonderful picture drama, full of excitement and is taken in fact from the famous story of the famous actress, "The Telltale Heart." Other pictures today will be a two reel comedy drama entitled "Dress and Diamonds" and a three reel film showing many of the late news events in pictures. An especially good bill has been presented for Friday and Saturday of this week, and besides the five reels of "The Mystery of Myra" and another of the popular Napoleon and Sally comedies there will be presented by Daniel Frohman the production, "Marguerite Clark in the picture play, Out of the Dark" written by William H. Clifford and produced by the Famous Players Film Company. There is a large cast of characters in the play which includes William Courtright, Jr., E. W. Johnson, Alfred Gray and others equally well known. Out of the Dark is different from any picture that has been seen, and is one of the best.
